

Spiritual help after the vaccination – Thomas Mayer on the Corona jabs

Harrie Salman

Also many people in spiritual circles have been vaccinated against the Coronavirus. As far as they have weighed the risks for their health, they will not have considered the spiritual consequences. Nothing was known about that. However, there is cause for concern, as the German book Corona Vaccinations from a Spiritual Point of View, published in October 2021, shows. In it, the German researcher of the nature beings, Thomas Mayer, clearly reports on his research into the effects of vaccination on the soul and spirit, but also on life after death. For this, he incorporated the experiences of many therapists and more than 50 clairvoyant colleagues. In spring 2021, he had already written the booklet Spiritual Resilience in the Corona Crisis - 28 Meditations.

The first experiences came from therapists of people who had just received the vaccination with one of the four common vaccines (in fact they are genetic therapies). They noticed that their rhythmic rubbings and massages, curative eurythmy and cranio-sacral therapy were no longer effective. The tissues, the ether body and the astral body had hardened and the ego was harder to reach. The remarkable thing was that their clients did not notice this themselves. After several therapeutic treatments, hardening and blockages could often be undone.

In order to investigate these observations, Mayer and his colleagues conducted clairvoyant research. They found that parts of the spiritual bodies had shifted in relation to each other after inoculation. They also observed the demonic beings connected to the various vaccines, the transhumanism spirits that access the aura through these beings, and also small demonic elemental beings. Mayer describes that these beings can be expelled through the activity of the I of the vaccinated person, in connection with the love of Christ. According to the researchers, the effects of the vaccinations differ from person to person.

Those who are vaccinated out of fear of the virus cause these beings to penetrate deeper into the spiritual bodies. The person who administers the vaccination can stop these beings to some extent by his inner attitude and we can also do this ourselves by praying during the vaccination. After the vaccination we can prepare ourselves for a confrontation with these beings and support this with certain natural remedies, homeopathic remedies, mistletoe essences etc., but also with the therapies mentioned above. Spiritual and artistic activities such as meditation, prayer, religious rituals and reading spiritual literature can help to expel these beings, as can confronting them with the powers of Christ, Michael, Raphael or Buddha. The processing of the inoculation can take several weeks to several months. Over time, the effects may lessen unless further booster vaccinations are taken.

Just as chemotherapy and psychopharmaceuticals affect life after death, the researchers believe this is also the case with vaccines. Their observations of about 50 people who died after being vaccinated showed that most of them were bound to the earth. How long this can last is a question for further research. It has been found that it is possible to free the deceased from this state and bring them into the light. This can take several hours and sometimes be very difficult. The book gives instructions on how this can be done.

Mayer and his co-researchers found that going through a Coronavirus infection can have a similar effect as the vaccination. In those who had died from the consequences of the infection, the bondage to the earth was usually much less when they had already gone through an inner processing during their illness. In this process a confrontation with the Corona being takes place. According to Mayer, this owes its strong demonic effect to the fact that the Corona virus almost certainly does not have a natural origin and has been made more dangerous for humans in a laboratory.

The book contains messages from therapists and clairvoyants, with shocking details that are better left for the reader to process while reading the book. Enough objective information is given for that. The reader may wonder why viruses are being tinkered with and why the new generation of mRNA vaccines was authorized before the side effects and their effect on the soul and spirit had been sufficiently investigated.

Those who are not trapped in materialistic thoughts can gradually neutralize the effect of the Corona and vaccine beings through a spiritual way of life, as Rudolf Steiner already noted about the vaccines of his time. This seems to be more difficult with the new vaccines. In this global vaccination campaign, we can be concerned about the people who have no spiritual vision of life and no insight into the first steps towards the transhuman human being that are now being taken with so much pressure from the government through the mRNA vaccinations. How can they too be helped?
